Overall, these are great wireframe designs for the website and its three pages. There are footers on each one of the pages and there is a nice use of negative space between the assets on the page. This negative space is beneficial as it makes everything very clear to the person navigating it. The contact page is a little plain and the scrolling bar is a little low on the page and stands out a little too much. The side nav bar and order cart are well placed on the left side and are not too imposing on the page. The about page could be a little more stylized with maybe the text wrapping around the image or a different placement of the assets as opposed to side to side of one another. However, this is a great website wireframe design and uses many of the design elements learned effectively.
